Shri Radha Rani Temple

Shri Radha Rani Temple, is a historical Hindu temple, located in Barsana in Mathura district, Uttar Pradesh, India.[1] The temple is dedicated to the goddess Radha.[2] The main deities of the temple are Radha Krishna who are worshiped together in the form of Shri Laadli Lal, which means the beloved daughter and son of the town.[3]

The temple is stretched on the top of Bhanugarh hills, which is about 250 meters in height.[1] It attracts huge crowd of devotees and tourists visiting temple from across the world for its most popular festivals - Radhashtami and Lathmar Hol.

History

Radha Rani Temple is originally believed to be established by King Vajranabh (great-grandson of Krishna) around 5000 years ago. The temple is said to be in ruins; the icons were rediscovered by Narayan Bhatt (a disciple of Chaitanya Mahaprabhu) and a temple was built in 1675 AD by Raja Bir Singh Deo. Later, the present structure of the temple was built by Narayan Bhatt with the help of Raja Todarmal, one of the governors in Akbar's court.

There is also a popular legend associated with the temple. According to it, Krishna's father Nanda and Radha's father Vrishbhanu were close friends. While Nanda was head of Gokula, Vrishbhanu was head of Rawal. However, fed up with the atrocities of Mathura's king Kamsa, both of them with their people shifted to Nandgaon and Barsana. Nanda made Nandishvar hill his home and Vrishbhanu made Bhanugarh hill his permanent abode, which also ultimately became the abode of Radha. Presently, in both the twin towns of Barsana and Nandgaon, there stands the historical temples dedicated to Radha and Krishna on the peak of Nandishvar and Bhanugarh hills respectively. While Nandgaon temple is called the Nand Bhawan, Barsana temple is named after Radha, called Radha Rani temple or Shriji (Shreeji temple).

Architecture

Shreeji Temple, with its arches, pillars and red sandstone, looks like a structure dating back to the Mughal era. This popular temple in Barsana is a classic example of the Rajput architecture prevailing during that time.[1][5][6] The temple looks like a magnificent palace which is made up of red sandstone and adorned with intricate hand carvings, beautiful arches, domes and exquisite paintings on its inner walls and ceilings. Red and white stones have been used for the construction of the temple, which are considered to symbolize the love of Radha and Krishna.[7]

There are more than 200 stairs which leads to the main temple from the ground. At the foot of the steps that lead to this temple is the palace of Vrishabhanu Maharaj where there are idols of Vrishabhanu Maharaj, Kirtida, Shridama (Sibling of Radha) and Shri Radhika. Near this palace is the temple of Brahma. Also, close by, there is Ashtasakhi temple where Radha along with her principal sakhis (friends) are worshiped.[8] As the temple is on the peak of hill, the whole Barsana can be seen from the temple's premises.

Festivals

Radhashtami and Krishna Janmashtami, birthdays of Radha and Krishna, are the chief festivals of the Radha Rani temple. On both of these days, the temple is decorated with flowers, balloons and lights. The deities are dressed in new dresses and jewellery sets. After performing "Aarti", 56 types of dishes, also called "Chappan Bhog" is offered to Radha Krishna which later gets distributed to the devotees as "Prasada".[7]

Besides Radhastami and Janmashtami, Lathmar Holi is also one of the significant festivals of the temple. To celebrate Lathmar Holi, devotees and tourists visit the temple. The Holi in Barsana starts a week before the actual day of the festival and lasts till Rang Panchami.[

By Air: Nearest airports are Agra (Kheria Airport, ~100 km) or Delhi (Indira Gandhi International, ~150-160 km). From there, hire a taxi.

No entry fee is required.

Greatness of This Temple

This temple holds immense spiritual significance as the birthplace of Radha Rani (Radha's childhood home in Braj lore).

It symbolizes divine love (prema bhakti) between Radha and Krishna.

Devotees believe visiting grants blessings of love, devotion, and protection.

It's a key pilgrimage site in Braj Yatra, attracting millions for its serene hilltop location offering panoramic views of Barsana.

Legends and History

According to tradition, the original temple was established ~5,000 years ago by King Vajranabh (Krishna's great-grandson) to honor Radha on Bhanugarh Hill (named after Radha's father, Vrishabhanu).

Legends say Radha was born to King Vrishabhanu and Queen Kirti (Kirtida) in Barsana; the family shifted here for safety from Kansa.

The temple fell into ruins over time.

In the 16th century, Narayan Bhatt (disciple of Chaitanya Mahaprabhu) rediscovered the idols.

It was rebuilt in 1675 AD (or around 1615-1675) by Raja Bir Singh Deo.

The site is tied to Brahma's boon to manifest as hills to witness Radha-Krishna pastimes.

Architecture of Temple, Deities

The temple resembles a medieval palace with tall walls, arches, pillars, and red sandstone construction. It sits atop the hill with open courtyards and stunning views.

Main Deities: Radha and Krishna worshipped together as Shri Laadli Lal (beloved daughter and son). Radha (Ladli Ji) is central, often adorned elaborately.

Sub-deities: Associated shrines include those for other forms or related figures (e.g., nearby Kirti Maiya Temple for Radha's mother). The main sanctum features captivating Radha-Krishna idols.

Daily Rituals and Poojas and Their Charges

The temple follows traditional Vaishnava rituals with no mandatory charges (free entry and darshan). Devotional offerings are voluntary.

Timings (approximate; vary slightly by season):

Summer (April–September): Morning 5:00 AM–2:00 PM; Evening 5:00 PM–9:00 PM.

Winter (October–March): Morning 5:30 AM–1:00/2:00 PM; Evening 5:00 PM–8:30/9:00 PM.

Key Daily Aartis:

- Mangala Aarti (~5:00-5:30 AM).
- Shringar Aarti (~7:00 AM).
- Rajbhog Aarti (~12:30 PM).
- Sandhya/Evening Aarti (~5:00-6:00 PM).
- Shayan Aarti (~8:15-8:45 PM).
- Chhappan Bhog (56 dishes) offered after aarti, distributed as prasada.
- Special personal poojas or close darshan may involve voluntary dakshina (e.g., ₹100/person in some reports for proximity).

Special Poojas and Rituals and Their Charges

Special rituals are often donation-based or free during festivals.

Examples include elaborate shringars, bhogs, or unique customs like Pandey Leela (showering laddus). No fixed public charges listed; contact temple trust for sponsored seva (e.g., annadan, mahaprasad). Donations support maintenance and charitable activities.

Festivals

Lathmar Holi (unique playful "stick" Holi where women playfully hit men with sticks; very famous, colorful, and crowded).

Radhashtami (Radha's appearance day; temple decorated like a bride, huge celebrations).

Janmashtami, Holi, Sharad Purnima, Kartik Purnima.

Other events: Annakut, Diwali, etc., with special decorations and bhajans.

Facilities for Devotees (Accommodation etc.)

Basic facilities available; the temple area has open spaces. Limited in Barsana itself—many stay in Mathura/Vrindavan.

Accommodation: Guest houses like Vyas Ji Atithi Bhavan, Ladli Palace Guest House, or Brajdham Hotel Barsana (basic, near temple). Some ashrams or dharamshalas offer stay.

Other: Prasada distribution, parking (₹100 in some areas), toilets. Ropeway or vehicle access helps elderly/devotees.

Donation Info and Bank Account Number

Donations support temple maintenance, prasada, and social causes (e.g., education, food seva via trusts like Shree Ji Barsana Mandal Trust). Online options available on sites like sjbmt.in (donate section) or mandirshriladleejimaharaj.org. Specific bank details not publicly standardized in searches—contact via phone (e.g., +91-8923563256) or visit trust offices for UPI/bank transfer info.

Preface

The land of Braj is not merely a geographical location but a living tapestry of faith, history, and architectural splendor. At its heart lies Barsana, the sacred abode of Shri Radha Rani. This document serves as a comprehensive guide and archival record of the Shri Radha Rani Temple (Shreeji Mandir), a site that has stood for centuries as a testament to the profound spiritual heritage of India.

Through this research, we aim to bridge the gap between ancient tradition and modern pilgrimage. By documenting the intricate rituals, the storied history of the Brahmachal Hill, and the practical logistics of the temple's administration, we provide a resource for both the devout pilgrim and the cultural historian. It is our hope that this record aids in the preservation of the temple's legacy and assists seekers in navigating their journey to this "Queen of Heritage Sites" with ease and reverence.

Here are the deeper details regarding the history, legends, rituals, and celebrations at the Shri Radha Rani Temple in Barsana:

1. Deep History and Origins

The history of the temple is a blend of ancient scriptural foundations and medieval architectural restoration.

* Ancient Roots (5,000 Years Ago): According to tradition, the temple was first established by Vajranabh, the great-grandson of Lord Krishna.

He built several temples in the Braj region to commemorate the childhood pastimes of Radha and Krishna. Over millennia, the original structure fell into ruins and was "lost" to the world.

* The Medieval Revival (16th Century): The site was rediscovered by Narayan Bhatt, a prominent disciple of Chaitanya Mahaprabhu. He is credited with identifying the exact location of Radha Rani's birthplace on Bhanugarh Hill.

* Royal Patronage: The current grand structure was primarily built in 1675 CE by Raja Bir Singh Deo of Orchha.

It is said that Raja Todar Mal, one of Emperor Akbar's famous ministers, also contributed significantly to the temple's construction, blending Rajput and Mughal architectural styles.

2. Sacred Legends

The temple and the hills of Barsana are steeped in "Braj Leela" (divine plays):

* The Four Peaks of Brahma: Legend says that Lord Brahma wanted to witness the pastimes of Radha and Krishna, so he took the form of the four-peaked Brahmachal Hill in Barsana. The main temple sits on the peak known as Bhanugarh.

* Radha's Birth (Manifestation): It is believed that Radha Rani did not take birth like a normal human but was found by King Vrishbhanu on a lotus leaf in a pond at nearby Rawal.

The family later moved to Barsana to protect her from the demons sent by King Kansa.

* The "Maan" Leela: Nearby sites like Maan Garh commemorate the stories where Radha would get "angry" (Maan) with Krishna, and he would have to perform various acts, like dancing as a peacock (at Mor Kutir), to please her.

3. Daily Rituals and Poojas

The temple follows a strict "Ashtayam" Seva (eight-fold daily service) typical of the Braj tradition.

Ritual/Aarti	Approx. Time (Summer/Winter)	Significance
Mangala Aarti	5:00 AM / 5:30 AM	The first viewing of the day; waking the deity.
Shringar Aarti	8:00 AM	After the deity is bathed and dressed in fine silks.
Rajbhog Aarti	11:30 AM – 12:30 PM	The grand noon offering of a multi-course meal.
Sandhya Aarti	6:30 PM / 5:30 PM	Evening prayers as the sun sets.
Shayan Aarti	8:30 PM / 8:00 PM	The final aarti before the deity retires for the night.

Pooja Charges:

* General Darshan: Always Free.

* Chhappan Bhog Seva: A massive offering of 56 delicacies. This is usually sponsored by devotees and can cost between ₹11,000 to ₹51,000+ depending on the scale.

* Poshak Seva: Offering a new dress to the deity. Charges vary based on the fabric and embroidery (starting from approx. ₹5,000).

* VIP/Guided Darshan: Local authorized agencies often provide "VIP assistance" (priority queueing) for charges ranging from ₹1,500 to ₹3,500 per person during peak festival times.

4. Major Festivals

Lathmar Holi (Phalgun Month)

This is the most famous celebration in Barsana.

* The Legend: Krishna and his friends from Nandgaon would come to Barsana to tease Radha and her friends. The women of Barsana would playfully drive them away with sticks.

* The Event: Today, men from Nandgaon visit the temple, and the women of Barsana ("Gopis") beat their shields with large wooden sticks (Lathis). It is a riot of colors, songs, and spiritual fervor.

Radhashtami (Bhadrapada Month)

* The birth anniversary of Shri Radha Rani.

* The temple is decorated like a bride with flowers and lights.

* Unique Ritual: At 4:00 AM, a special "Abhishek" (holy bath) is performed with milk, honey, and herbs. Devotees are showered with Laddoos (Laddu Leela) as prasad.

5. Special Rituals & Offerings

* Chunari Manorath: Devotees offer a long "Chunari" (veil) that stretches from the temple top down to the town below.

* Bhog Seva: You can book a "Thaal" (meal offering) for approximately ₹501 to ₹2,100 through the temple office to be offered to the deity in your name.

* Deep Daan: Lighting lamps around the temple during the month of Kartik (Oct/Nov).

Note: For the most accurate current rates for special sevas, it is best to visit the Temple Trust Office located at the base of the stairs or on the temple premises, as prices are subject to change by the trust.

2. What is the route to the Shri Radha Rani Temple?

It may be reached by personal vehicle, which can transport you to the Kushalbihari Temple and then a short walk, or by ascending around 200–250 stairs.

3. Is a wheelchair accessible at the Shri Radha Rani Temple?

No, the temple is not wheelchair accessible because of the steps and its hilltop setting.

4. When is the ideal time to go to Shri Radha Rani Temple?

The months of October through March offer the ideal travel conditions. For a more joyous ambiance, think about going during Lathmar Holi or Radhashtami.
